Before 1914, when Joyce was most in control of his own reputation, he considered himself an Irish writer speaking To The Dublin middle classes. Rollicking rhymes and delightful drawings highlight this tale by the bestselling team of storyteller Dawn McMillan and illustrator Ross Kinnaird, the cheeky creators of I Need a New Butt! This is a nice collection of short stories that isn't too large like so many anthologies.

While some anthologies spanning the last two centuries of literature tend to be comprised of the trite list we're use to seeing, this collection showed some surprises. The range and quality of selections are superb, though I would like to see a few more poets included, such as Edward Brathwaite from the West Indies, rap-soul poet Saul Williams, Jorie Graham and Gertrude Stein. The book concludes with essays that investigate Lacan and literature more broadly, including the applicability of literature to psychoanalysis.
