Any birding is fun, but he has particular interests in the minutiae of plumage, moults and field identification, and in the ecology and conservation of shorebirds.

The Australian Bird Guide

Hardheads have bold white bands in their wings.

Identifying waterbirds (Department of Environment and Science)

From October to December they nest, and their white fluffy chicks are even more charming than the adults. Wing pattern also helps to separate the two species of pygmy-goose cotton pygmy goose and green pygmy goose and to distinguish Pacific black duck, grey teal and female Australasian shoveler.

Field guide list

This page shows some birds from the Sydney and Blue Mountains and other regions of Australia. March, April, May, Maria Island Pacific, Kelp and Silver Gulls, Crested Terns, Little Pied and Great Cormorants and Australian Pelicans are common sights across the white sandy beaches, feeding on small surface fish, squid, crabs, insects and other aquatic prey.
