The odds are very good that none of those reasons have to do with aliens.

Regulatory Commission of Alaska

The council visited 45 communities in Western Alaska in 2018 to photograph dilapidated public safety buildings and count police officers. With almost no room for contingency in the budget upon award, the team conducted an in-depth analysis of design to identify areas to add value, reduce risk and solve a variety of notable challenges prior to construction. Aimed at school children, the general public, and visitors to Juneau, this exhibit showcases the multi-faceted attributes of the region's indigenous place names.
