Charlie Ahearn

We all did our thing. To celebrate 25 years since its release, the film's writer and director, Charlie Ahearn, has compiled a book, Wild Style The Sampler, that features photographs, stories and graphics that document the remarkable journey from initial idea to cult movie classic. Photo Amphitheater 1981 DPs John Foster, Clive Davidson, John McNaughtly and Charlie Ahearn by Michael Markos.

Charlie Ahearn

He had very specific ideas about everything in the film, and was closely involved in developing the aesthetic of the art in the opening sequence. I will always remember him as one of the people, early on, who recognized that I wanted to be accepted as an artist and not remain a perpetually stoned graffiti writer. Today, reader support makes up about two-thirds of our budget, allows us to dig deep on stories that matter, and lets us keep our reporting free for everyone.

Wildstylez also produced his first Anthem, 'No Time to Waste' for hardstyle Festival. In 1977 he went to the Projects in the Lower East Side to film local youths practice martial arts with his Super 8 camera, which exposed him to hip-hop. You ever hear them rapping in Japanese? You ever hear them rapping in Swahili? Do you think the concept of graffiti-as-vandalism is dying? He also produced a series of Artist Portrait Videos featuring , , Ahearn's brother John, , Jane Dickson and.
