Canadian Parliamentary Review

With respect to the question of national or ethnic origin or religion, it is my understanding there was no clarification of the need for delay on those grounds.

Power Up: Biden signals he's open to negotiations on minimum wage. Progressives won't be happy.

We are asking for a full disclosure in an outside audit. The Liberals made a promise in 2015 that 2019 would be it.

Is Affordable Housing Good for the Neighborhood?

The proposed wording suggests a process that is less than transparent, timely or efficient and fails to give the community any reassurance that its concerns are being properly addressed. Speaker, but I think it's important for the record to show that this is an issue that comes up from time to time. Basically, we do have a province with a balanced government, we do have a very sensible government too.

Debates

By 2025, the number of families that spend at least half of their income on rent will reach 13 million—.

ANHD

Nixon: I think the honourable member is aware of the statement made by the Premier Mr. Board of Education, a case that tested the segregation of school facilities in Topeka, Kansas.

This Week in Poverty: Sequestration, Housing, Homelessness

This bill would give seniors who receive GIS a one-year grace period to get their taxes completed.

Robert L. Stanfield

I am particularly proud of the work she has done in health and safety.
