SADTU Political Education Blog: Two Tactics of Social

For preemptive tactical reasons, the Conservative and monarchist Austrian government proposed an electoral reform in October 1893, which, had it been adopted, would have given the Social Democratic party a chance to gain seats in the Austrian Diet. As a result of the upswing in industrial production, the working class was growing. Want to thank TFD for its existence? Similarly it remained imperative for the movement to grow and develop at its own pace.

The new supporters, who for a long time had not been exposed to agitation and education about the positions of the party, must be shown that freedom of criticism existed; expulsions had to be avoided as much as possible, he told Wilhelm Liebknecht in his comments to the draft Party Statutes 10 August 1890. While advocating mass actions, he also stressed the necessity of internal discussion and debate concerning the way ahead.
