[PDF] An Implicit Shape Model for Combined Object Categorization and Segmentation

We show that this transformation always exists for three noncollinear points, and is unique up to a reflective ambiguity. Locus: Learning object classes with unsupervised segmentation. Each of these hypothesized matches is verified by comparing the entire edge contours of the aligned object with the image edges.

This paper describes an approach to the recognition of stacked objects with planar and curved surfaces. Workshop on Automatic Face and Gesture Recognition, 1995. Experiments show good performance and together with inherent parallelism of the recognition method makes the method a promising one.

Cvpr2007 object category recognition p2

Results of the recognition process on synthetic and actual laser range data are presented for several objects.
