Lehren die Selbstignoranz zerstört hat.

Vācaspati Miśra (a.d. 840) [Part 12]

This is how the dwaitis should have examined their contention. Then he would bring the same for neivēdhyam to Kālafīśwara who stays at the top of the fourth hill. Derjenige, der jegliche Verhaftung aufgibt, der seine Zuflucht bei Weisen sucht und durch Dienen frei wird vom Bewußtsein des »ich« und »mein«.

Vācaspati Miśra (a.d. 840) [Part 12]

He admits two kinds of, as psychological and as forming the material cause of the mind and the inner psychical nature of man or as the material world outside. In this śloka Āçārya amplifies the siddhānta of bhakti, its greatness and its swarūpa lakṣaṇam. This is to show that Mahādeva is non-different from Kannappā.

Rozdział 13 : Bhagavadgita

The content of the illusory experiences is also derived from the indescribable avidyā, which is made to appear as real by their association with Brahman, the ultimately real and self-revealing Being.

Sukadev

This is however a mistake, as the work deals with the doctrines of sound, and has nothing to do with Vedānta. The external objects therefore are already existent outside of the perceiver, only their nature and stuff are indescribable and irrational anirvācya. If you become blind then the whole world would drown in darkness.
