MEETING: Britain needs socialism

. . And yet there is not one word uttered by any of the critics on this determining factor: it is here that British movement takes part in the defeat of the world movement and thus in its own destruction.

A revolutionary imperative

Following the report and discussions at the closed session of our Twenty-Fourth Congress, a whole series of discussions on the Twentieth Congress of the C. Twenty-Second Congress of the Communist Party Critics claim that the program denies the inevitability of war under imperialism.

Only One Road to Socialism — Australian Communist Party

Such examples are many and varied. Despite the democratic rights which have so far been won by the struggles of the people, the real power in Britain is still concentrated in the hands of the tiny section of rich property-owners. We understand that knowledge is primarily made-up of background assumptions and preconceived notions that are part-and-parcel of Liberal ideology.

What was John Berger's relationship to the Communist Party of Great Britain?

It has sold out Britain to American big business. It has done this at a time when all over the world vast changes are taking place.

Selected Writings: "Revolutionary Democracy" and the "British Road to Socialism"

It is a matter of the comprehension of the strategy of the world revolution.

How do billionaires exist in communist China? : Socialism_101

Through trade unions, in particular, they can develop and express their collective strength as a democratic, disciplined force in society. The people of Britain can look forward to a better future only if they take their country into their own hands. This is certainly the case in Britain, Germany, some Scandinavian countries, Australia and New Zealand.

Only One Road to Socialism — Australian Communist Party

The sham measures of nationalisation have only increased exploitation and put still heavier burdens on the workers to pay huge sums of compensation to the old owners. Crime has soared and Russia has one of the highest murder rates in the world, three times greater than that of the United States, five times more than France and seven times more than Germany. The blog and is a short ML review.

Stalin supported the British Road to Socialism : communism

The Governing Boards are composed completely of the workers and technicians. These homes should be controlled and owned by local authorities, and not making profits for entrepreneurs. Indeed, of our history and theory and strategy and tactics.
