

ASEAN - Australian immigration and the demise of White Australia

ASEAN - Australia Joint Research Project - The beginning of the end of the White Australia policy

Description: -

-

Southeast Asia -- Emigration and immigration.

Australia -- Emigration and immigration.

ASEAN.ASEAN - Australian immigration and the demise of White Australia

-

ASEAN-Australia economic papers -- no.17ASEAN - Australian immigration and the demise of White Australia

Notes: Bibliography: p. [59]-60.

This edition was published in 1985

Filesize: 32.47 MB

Tags: #iview

End of the White Australia policy

The ruling class was fully conscious of the role Australia was expected to play as junior partner to British imperialism in the Pacific, as will be seen from the following statement by Senator Staniford, in the Parliamentary debates on White Australia, at the end of 1901. Through an interdisciplinary approach and from an international perspective, IMR provides the single most comprehensive forum devoted exclusively to the analysis and review of international population movements.

End of the White Australia policy

There has been a consensus in the early 1990s amongst researchers and commentators that much of the resentment towards Asian migrants is a more general opposition to the economic and employment impacts of all immigration in a context of high unemployment. People from Asian countries comprise a growing proportion of the rapidly increasing temporary movements of business people, professionals, specialist or temporary workers, students, or working holiday-makers in our region.

1920 White Australia Game

It is clear that these changes in Australian foreign policy have been in response to the evolution of security and economic circumstances in the Asian region. In terms of numbers of arrivals since 1975, the countries of Southeast Asia especially Vietnam, followed by the Philippines, Malaysia and Indonesia have been the most significant, contributing more than half Australia's Asia-born population.

Asian Immigration

People of Asian background will make up 16 per cent. Immigrants came here quite unaware of the real conditions in this country.

Immigration and the White Australia Policy by R. Dixon

Precisely how culture should affect foreign policy is more debatable. Moreover, ethnicity was not such a large an issue now as it was before.

Asian Immigration

In the AGB McNair Poll of June 14-16 1996, 17 65 per cent of respondents thought that migration was too high, compared with 29 per cent who considered it 'about right' and 3 per cent who thought it was 'too low'. The issues posed by Megalogenis do not affect Australia alone. So a person from China or Japan who wanted to live in Australia could be tested in one or all of French, Italian or English languages.

From 'White Australia' to 'Part of Asia': Recent Shifts in Australian Immigration Policy towards the Region on JSTOR

There are other factors to be considered. It will be recalled that the dictation test was used by Mr.

Related Books

- Kimika - hiztegia
- Cancer epigenetics
- New chosen people - immigrants in the United States
- 1990 status report - child protective services program, family violence program, services to runaway
- Foreign Trade Regulations of Hong Kong