William Bernard Robinson King B.A.

Geology of the Solent Estuaries

Even if geologists had accepted his claim that the continents are moving, it raised more questions than answers. The section is an example of hypersaline lagoon conditions which in this region marked the regression at the end of the Jurassic Period. A teacher who uses this assessment task recognizes that all assessments have strengths and weaknesses; this task is appropriate for one purpose, and other modes of assessment are appropriate for other purposes.
