Biology of desmoplastic melanoma: a case

Single-Agent Chemotherapy The only single agent approved for the treatment of melanoma is dacarbazine, which provides response rates of 15% to 20% but results in complete remission in less than 5% of treated patients. These cells were rendered insensitive to TGF- β by infecting them with a retrovirus containing a dominant negative TGF- β type II receptor. Cancer Treat Rev 7 suppl :87â90, 1980.

Melanoma

The TLR9 receptor is expressed mostly on B cells and plasmacytoid dendritic cells. The other major factor regulating melanocyte function is melatonin, an indole molecule that originates in the pineal gland and suppresses melanocyte function under conditions of decreased ambient light.

What Does Melanoma Look Like?
