On May 20, 1822, Governor SIMPSON reported that he had established a fort at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers. This forced several experienced traders, especially among the Meti, to apply for American citizenship and go to work for Astor. On August 30, 1812, they completed the lengthy 700 mile voyage to the site chosen for the colony, near the forks of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers.
