For additional licensing information, including licenses for libraries used by MySQL products, see. If neither the -S nor -s flag is used in the command, the filer automatically creates a distinctively-named snapshot at the time the vol copy start command is executed and copies only that snapshot to the destination volume.

MN Court Rules

Proprietary SCSI commands are no longer required. This means that when another client requests data from that file, any other FlexCache volume that has that data cached will re-request the data after the attribute cache timeout is reached.
