G.P. Putnam's Sons - Falling Into Manholes: The Memoir of a Bad/Good Girl by Wendy Merrill

Description: The hilarious, skewed, rueful misadventures of a forty-something, in-recovery-from-everything bad girl/good girl in her search for love, sex, and sanity. After losing herself in an endless series of attachments, this serial mater comes to see how her relationships with men are emblematic of all her relationships--with alcohol, food, drugs, family, friends, and most of all, herself. With honesty, humor, and style, Wendy explores the contradictions and imperfections of being a woman, in a book about relationships, addiction, self-esteem (and the lack thereof), and going to any lengths to discover what matters. She gives the reader a good laugh, an easy read, and hope.--From publisher description.

She also constantly quotes definitions out of the dictionary that take up half a page or more! I loved that the author disclosed at the end the reason underlying her anger at her mothers death and the actual details of that.

FALLING INTO MANHOLES

They have a plan to try to fulfill their dream, which is to have their own acre of land and their own shack, and try to carry it out. Their books are filled with tears, laughter, humanity and wisdom. As she emerges from rehab with a clean slate, it is evident to Merrill that she has replaced her addiction to alcohol with an addiction to men; unfortunately, it proves to be equally unhealthy.
