Camerton railway station
(Cumberland)

The rich haematite deposits are found in a variety of different forms penetrating faults in the Carboniferous limestone strata of West Cumbria. . You will be able to walk the lines today and see the buildings that still remain from the comfort of your own home.

Lost Railways of Cumbria : Gordon Suggitt : 9781846741074

The gradual decline within the central area in industrial activity after the mid-century was compensated by an economic revival as the railway network fed a new class of holiday-maker into the region.

Lost Railways of Cumbria : Gordon Suggitt : 9781846741074

Once upon a time however, there was a far bigger network which operated at a much more relaxed - and refined - pace.

Cumbria Railway Photograph Collection

Most of the casualties were soldiers of the Royal Scots, on their way to Liverpool to board ship destined for Gallipoli. On this last bridge there was the start of a turnout and a run round loop to allow shunting into Kelton mine.

Railway Historical Societies & Rail Preservation

In Summer 1907 eight trains left Coniston for Foxfield Monday to Saturday, with three on Sundays.
