Alan Shepard

The range was to be equipped so as to determine velocity, range, elevation, and azimuth with radar. IDC also provides engineering images of solar arrays, payload deck, and instruments. When it finally flew, the pilot had to make an emergency landing up range.

InSight

The laboratory was also correct in predicting that the thrust chamber cooling of the Reaction Motors' design might present some difficulty. This factor would tend to compensate and equalize the total radiation exposure of supersonic and subsonic crews. The next section explains how this approach could be incorporated into a 'shell 1.
