5 Ways to Keep Kids Safe Around Water

The many frequently touched surfaces of playground equipment make it easier to spread the virus that causes COVID-19. When the weather is appropriate to be outside, patio dining can be a good outdoor option. It's easy to get in the sun, particularly if you're active and sweating.

5 Ways to Keep Kids Safe Around Water

Alcohol and water never mix.

Water Safety (for Teens)

As a babysitter, water safety should always be a serious concern, but you can stay on top of it more easily when you have the proper safety training, and you follow our tips. Beware of bugs Unfortunately, blood-sucking critters like mosquitoes are a part of summer nights, and, yes, even days. Their tiny bodies simply lose heat too quickly, and then they're at risk of hypothermia.

Youth Education

The statistics for teen guys are particularly scary: One half of all teen male drownings are tied to alcohol use.
