Breezes Against My Brow

Ice formed on the wings. Discover the joy of flying from a guy who does it for love, not money. Miraculously, all survived, although Gillam suffered severe head injuries in the crash landing.

Alaska Bush Pilot Glen Hudson Killed in Crash

Frank Barr was one of the most interesting of the early aviation pioneers in Alaska. The bottom of the canyon was only about 20 feet wide, and its sheer walls rose up abruptly on each side. There was a standing ovation from his longtime rivals and competitors - the pioneering flyboys who had battled each other for scarce business during lean times. This aircraft was purchased from the Planes of Fame Museum in Chino, California by Don Rogers and Bob Wagstaff of Anchorage and donated to the aviation museum, where it was fully restored by museum volunteers.

North to the Future: The Alaska Story, 1959

Ne esce un quadro realistico, veritiero e variegato che ci restituisce, attraverso il racconto approfondito e dettagliato delle sue corse e della sua vita anche al di fuori dei circuiti, l'immagine dell'uomo Gilles, con le sue emozioni e i suoi affetti, le sue delusioni e le sue conquiste, impegnato nella grande gara della vita ancor prima che in quella dei bolidi della Formula 1. Born in Holland, he worked as a young engineer in England for Sopwith and Armstrong-Whitworth.

List of Alaskan aviators

He never gave up and had a heart of sympathy for the down and out prospectors, miners and trappers he served. Ptarmigan Airlines, the Ford arrived in Anchorage in 1934.
