Rifaximin, probiotics, and mesalazine were the most frequent prescribed drugs to prevent recurrence of the disease 32. CSR also has initiated an early career reviewer program by training and placing on study sections more than 1,000 new early-career independent scientists, including approximately 30% underrepresented minority scientists, under the watchful eye of SROs and study section chairs. From this perspective, the term social support is used to refer to the real or perceived availability of social resources.
