For help, we asked Amanda Carter of to tell us which models were most likely to be seen on the firing line. You can literally start shooting to that distance right now without having to hold over. If you're getting fast, tight and consistent groups at fifteen yards, so much the better.

11 Tips for Tactical Pistol Shooting

Run up to about 5-yards from your first target while drawing your gun to firing position. How we apply them is where we see a division.

Two 8-shot magazines rounds out the offering, but this is a firearm which words cannot do justice to, from a precision and target shooting perspective. If there is more of a gap on the right side, the pistol is pointing more to the left than you intend, and rounds will go that way, and vice versa.

What Shooting Distance Should I Use For Concealed Carry Practice?

They had consistently hit their targets on or near the bullseye while situated from 20 to 30 yards out. The sights are low-profile considering how adjustable they are, and the high visibility channel makes these easy to use in quick reaction scenarios.
