After being accepted into an elite New York City private school, Craig Gilner begins to buckle under stress, spiraling into drug use and depression—until he nearly kills himself. Unveiling Depression in Women is an up-to-date and comprehensive resource for women experiencing mild to moderate depression. It takes courage to seek help—from a loved one or a professional.

32 Best Books About Depression

If you are struggling with irritability, anxiety, sadness, or loss of enjoyment at the time of the menopause transition, you may be experiencing perimenopausal depression. Your health care provider may ask when your symptoms started, what time of day they happen, how long they last, how often they occur, if they seem to be getting worse or better, and if they keep you from going out or doing your usual activities. Healthy volunteers play a critical role in our studies.
