On the contrary, unequal remuneration renders it the interest of those possessed of skill in any department of industry to conceal from all others the mode of acquiring the peculiar manner of operating, which, improved by habit, becomes skill. Surrounding the blood-vessels are the cells forming the adjacent membrane, b b, each having a nucleus in its centre. The change goes on in every minute point of the body, though in some parts much faster than in others; as set forth in the piquant and sprightly language of Dr.
