Wuthering Expectations: They are swept by the wind, but their power endures

The fancies of the German peasants furnished him with the Erl- kng, the tale of The Student In Magic and his wooden water-bearer is circumstantially taken from the Phloppseudes of Lucian, as Is the Spectre Bride of Corinth from the story of PhiUnnium and Machates, quoted in many old demonologes from Phlegon Trallianus de Mirabilibus et Longevis. Goethe's Works in Sets 84 C.

In some cases I have been able later to identify the author. Hafiz Nameh Spirit's like the bridegroom who With the Word-bride rhymes.

The Legacy of Henry Corbin: Corbin

The edition of 1846 is sometimes mentioned as a part of the Bohn Library, but the Bohn Library was not established until 1847. The resulting collection engages with the idea of the other and unearths lyrical connections between cultures. Rilke paced back and forth, deep in thought, since the reply to the letter so concerned him.

Poems of the West and the East: West

It some- times lacks spontaneity and true Gtoethean grace of style, and it has striking inequalities, but the thought of the poet has not been sacrificed to mere gratification of the ear. Ronald can scavenge, salvage, yet his thought, Savage, competes in ravage.

Poems of the west and the east : West

A Selection of Songs and Ballads and Lesser Poems.

Sa'di

It went through another edition in 1823 and still another in 1828. The heroes of the world are they Who struggle to defend the peace, A light supreme of kindly ray, A blessing let it never cease. A new school with new views and conceptions now took up the work in a larger, broader manner.

Poems of the East and West

Until the 1940s, before Sa'di went out of fashion and became an object of ridicule, the work served at schools as a model of perfect prose. And yet: again and again Protestants and American Christians make a brew with these tea leaves that have been steeping for two thousand years.
