TS-I is only recognized in the Fundy basin and may or may not be a synrift deposit.

Rick Allmendinger's Stuff

During part of the 208-144 million years ago , rising seas flooded the low-lying areas of the continent. These structurally fractured and faulted zones often occur in association with.

Rift Basin Architecture & Evolution

Simple filling model for a growing half-graben basin shown in map view stages 1-4 , longitudinal cross section stages 1-5 , and transverse cross section stages 1-4. Dip direction is measured in 360 degrees, generally clockwise from North. Stress has caused permanent change of shape in the material by involving the breaking of bonds.

Details

They are of age 542 to 251 million years ago in the east and to age 252. In response, gentle monoclines formed in the shallow, postrift strata.
