Manx, spoken in the Isle of Man. Rock, river, forest, mountain, all abound, And bluest skies that harmonize the whole: Beneath, the distant torrent's rushing sound Tells where the volumed cataract cloth roll Between those hanging rocks, that shock yet please the soul. When Paphos fell by time — accursed Time! Here woman's voice is never heard: apart, And scarce permitted, guarded, veil'd, to move, She yields to one her person and her heart, Tamed to her cage, nor feels a wish to rove ; For, not unhappy in her master's love, And joyful in a mother's gentlest cares, Blest cares! To a well-natured mind, there is a charm of moral sensibility running 1 Charles Lamb's Works, On the Poetical Works of George Wither.

Our senses narrow, and our reason frail, is Life short, and truth a gem which loves the deep, And all things weigh'd in custom's falsest scale : Opinion and Omnipotence, — whose veil Mantles the earth with darkness, until right And wrong are accidents, and men grow pale Lest their own judgments should become too bright, And then - free thoughts be crimes, and earth have too much light. But the reader of the Norman history must steel himself by holding fast the remote compensations which result from animal vigor. They numbered about six hundred, brave and hardy mountaineers, but wholly undisciplined and unmanageable.
