It is at this point that they recommend to Zulaykha that she have him imprisoned. Here Egyptian women are stunned by Zulayka's beauty. For instance, in a 10th-century Persian rendition of Tabari's commentary, it is the women in their collectivity who first ask Yusuf why he refused to satisfy Zulaykha's request and, upon hearing his reason that he would not betray his master, tell Zulaykha that she has no other recourse but to have him put in jail.
