gabhartach

It tells the story of a bet made by Fionn Mac Cumhaill while he was on staycation in Rathinannane Castle, as to whether his hounds Bran and Seoalraig could catch the elusive great white hare of Dunquin.

Leabhar Mór na nAmhrán

Coiscéim, Baile Átha Cliath 2009. An Tíogar Ceilteach Celtic Tiger is a nickname for Ireland coined during the unprecedented economic boom of the 1990s, which saw Ireland transformed from one of the poorest nations in Europe to one of the richest.

The Burning of Bridget Cleary

The Mist Covered Mountain was released in 1980, the year after he died. Thanks Thanks and credit are due to Seán Breathnach and Fionn Ó Sealbhaigh of Sheila Kern a rinne na léaráidí.

The Burning of Bridget Cleary

The other two terms, just get something you don't have.

The native place--or in some cases the adoptive home place in a cultural and linguistic sense--is perceived as being at the centre of the universe and is always praised in the most superlative of exaggerations: it is the most beautiful, the most friendly, has the loveliest rivers, mountains and the most fertile land, and is of course a most Gaelic place in language, culture, and politics. Á, lena, lena chinntíú go mbeidh deis ag a ngasúir fhéin nach raibh acu fhéin. Ó Fallamhain Teo, i gcomhar le hÓifig an tSoláthair.
