Social justice. On reconstructing the social order - (Quadragesimo anno)

Social justice

It is an alluring poison which many have eagerly drunk whom open Socialism had not been able to deceive. The Christian Social Manifesto: An Interpretative Study of the Encyclicals Rerum Novarum and Quadragesimo Anno. The doctrine of John Locke, that our natural state is one of self-rule, the so-called state of nature, is false.

which promise a still richer harvest in the future. Society, therefore, as Socialism conceives it, can on the one hand neither exist nor be thought of without an obviously excessive use of force; on the other hand, it fosters a liberty no less false, since there is no place in it for true social authority, which rests not on temporal and material advantages but descends from God alone, the Creator and last end of all things. If all these relations are properly maintained, the various occupations will combine and coalesce into, as it were, a single body and like members of the body mutually aid and complete one another.

Quadragesimo anno group 1

The most important among these interests is to promote the cooperation in the highest degree of each industry and profession for the sake of the common good of the country. May she not take into account the fact that one child did an extra household chore, unasked, that another is struggling with a weight problem, that a third has an allergy to a favorite kind of pastry? This school, forgetful or ignorant of the social and moral aspects of economic activities, regarded these as completely free and immune from any intervention by public authority, for they would have in the market place and in unregulated competition a principle of self direction more suitable for guiding them than any created intellect which might intervene.

Quadragesimo Anno: On Reconstructing the Social Order by Pope Pius XI

Encyclical, On the Conditions of Workers, cf. Strangers No Longer: Together on the Journey of Hope. From the company president to the mailroom messenger, each is rightly concerned, in different ways it is true, with the prosperity of the industry, and hence is interested in the industry's markets, sources of supplies, potential customers, technology, in everything that contributes to the industry's health and profits.
