How to Write a Bibliography - Examples in MLA Style

A bibliography, by definition, is the detailed listing of the books, journals, magazines, or online sources that an author has used in researching and writing their work. It is important to note that it must be a complete list of every source used during the research phase - not just the ones referenced in the text in any styles of writing. More specifically, a bibliography must include:

- The name of the author or authors
- The full title of the source material
- The name of the publisher
- The date of publication
- The page number of the source material

You definitely have to know the exact bibliography meaning in a paper, because it is too easy to confuse a bibliography with a works cited; the two are similar, but they are not the same. So what's the difference?
