Ihara Saikaku

. Under the pen name Ihara Kakuei, he began to establish himself as a popular haikai poet. Lest it prove to be a barrier to my salvation in the next life, I decided to include in this final testament all of the grudges against you that have accumulated in me since we first met.

Numata Jakō

Scholars have described numerous extraordinary feats of solo haikai composition at one sitting; most famously, over the course of a single day and night in 1677, Saikaku is reported to have composed at least 16,000 haikai stanzas, with some sources placing the number at over 23,500 stanzas. From then on he pursued a career as a professional writer.
