Father Goriot

One of my friends is expatriating himself; I had been to see him off on board the Royal Mail steamer, and was coming back here. The horse took fright at the umbrella, swerved, and dashed forward towards the flight of steps.

Père Goriot

Have you a mind to marry? A mantle of ivy conceals the bricks and attracts the eyes of passers-by to an effect which is picturesque in Paris, for each of the walls is covered with trellised vines that yield a scanty dusty crop of fruit, and furnish besides a subject of conversation for Mme. His wondering thoughts took wings; he was transported out of the present into that blissful future; he was sitting by Mme.

Father Goriot

So I have come to you to ask you to give me a key to a puzzle, to entreat you to tell me what sort of blunder I made this morning. The novel is also noted as an example of his style, using minute details to create character and.

Père Goriot Study Guide

A duel is downright childish, my boy! The very knitted woolen petticoat that she wears beneath a skirt made of an old gown, with the wadding protruding through the rents in the material, is a sort of epitome of the sitting-room, the dining-room, and the little garden; it discovers the cook, it foreshadows the lodgers—the picture of the house is completed by the portrait of its mistress.

Le Père Goriot

I saw him crush a silver dish last night as if it had been made of wax; there seems to be something extraordinary going on in his mind just now, to judge by his face. Less superficial observers than young men engulfed by the whirlpool of Parisian life, or old men, who took no interest in anything that did not directly concern them, would not have stopped short at the vaguely unsatisfactory impression that Vautrin made upon them. Father Goriot 1835 is a novel by French author Honore de Balzac.

Though his manners were somewhat boorish, he was always as neat as a new pin and he took his snuff in a lordly way, like a man who knows that his snuff-box is always likely to be filled with maccaboy, so that when Mme. .

The routine of existence kept them in contact, but they were parts of a mechanism which wanted oil.

Père Goriot

Rastignac and Bianchon make arrangements for a meagre funeral, and ask the Restaud and Nucingen families to contribute money. We show no more mercy to the affection that reveals its utmost extent than we do to another kind of prodigal who has not a penny left. Volumes of explanation would not have been needed; we mothers can understand at a word, and that word would have spared me the anguish of uncertainty.
