Annual reports on the application of the Charter

The project was operated within the European Corporate Reporting Lab EFRAG. The annual report is based on the actions of EU institutions and the analysis of letters from the general public, and on questions and petitions from the European Parliament. However, terms introduced in later versions of the Online Services Terms could also apply to new features and supplements of related software not previously included in the subscription.

When it acted as a controller, the Microsoft Privacy Statement applied in addition to contractual documents.

ENNHR

The EDPS assessed the compliance of the ILA against the requirements laid down in that regulation. There was no mention in the negotiated ILA documents of categories of data subjects, although they were mentioned in the Data Protection Addendum. Therefore, they risk compromising their implementation of data protection principles e.

Lecture 2

However, like many of the data protection obligations under the ILA, it only applied to personal data provided through use of the online services. A response could be a refusal to allow an audit by EU institutions that overlapped with its own audits in scope.

Lecture 2

This was significant, as Microsoft had indicated in 2018 that it did not consider serving targeted in-application recommendations to customers for products they do not use or subscribe to as falling within advertising or a similar commercial purpose.

In general, the EDPS recommends that controllers should also evaluate the need for an assessment of data protection risks when they plan to use products or services offered by third-party providers, which will process large amounts of personal data.

Outcome of own

Some further details were provided in the Data Protection Addendum
