Community Innovation Survey

More than six-in-ten people want to keep the euro as their currency in Greece 69%, Spain 67%, Germany 66%, Italy 64% and France 63%.

European Social Survey

The Community Innovation Surveys CIS are a series of executed by national offices throughout the and in Norway and Iceland. Differences Abound Overall, the 2013 survey highlights more starkly than ever the differences between the views of Germans and other Europeans on a range of issues. Intersex people are twice as likely to experience a physical or sexual attack for being LGBTI than the group average.

European Social Survey

The study is being conducted in conjunction with approximately 28 other centres worldwide mainly in Europe. By presenting key findings from its second survey, FRA aims to encourage policy- and decision-makers to step up their efforts to promote full respect for the rights of LGBTI people.

Eurofound

The resulting micro-datasets can be accessed by researchers via the SAFE Center at the premises of Eurostat in Luxembourg or the anonymised micro-data via CD Rom's; some countries provides also access to their micro-data on similar safe centers.

European Social Survey

The results also show that LGBTI people across the EU — and beyond — believe that law and policy, as well as behaviour by politicians, public figures, community leaders and civil society, greatly affect their lives. There are others who allow you access to paid survey databases free of charge. Inequality is the principle concern in Germany.
