Frontiers in Cardiovascular Medicine

After 26 weeks, serum thromboxane levels were lowered by about 80%. Homocysteine and Vitamin B<sub>6</sub> have been shown to have a lot of research interest on homocysteine. McCully hypothesized that homocysteine could accelerate vascular disease in homocysteinuria, a rare autosomal-recessive deficiency of cystathione  $\beta$ -synthetase. Seed Apiaceae Coriandrum sativum L.

Pharmacology

Omega-3 Polyunsaturated Fatty Acids Ever since a very low incidence of CHD in Greenland Eskimos was reported, which was believed to be related to the high intake of seafood containing long-chain omega n-3 polyunsaturated fatty acids n-3 PUFAs, many studies in other populations have supported the theory that marine n-3 PUFAs protect against thrombosis, atherosclerosis, and CHD. Hypoglycemic and hypolipidemic effects of Coriandrum sativum L in Meriones shawi rats. Antihypertensive properties of flavonoid-rich apple peel extract.

Pharmacology

Background Geriatrics are a group of patients over 65 years and with multiple comorbidities and different functional impairments. The major risk factors for these disorders were recognized over many years, and they include high levels of low-density lipoprotein LDL cholesterol, smoking, hypertension, diabetes, abdominal obesity, psychosocial factors, insufficient consumption of fruits and vegetables, excess consumption of alcohol, and lack of regular physical activity. On the other hand, prescription of cardiovascular agents is much more frequent in this population than other classes of medicaments Frishman et al.
