What's New in Laws & Policies

It contains the overarching policy for the provision of services to children and families.

Child Welfare

At the local level, Children's Trusts might be strengthened by changing their name to Children and Family Trusts, thus making their remit explicit and encouraging holistic thinking among those within them. According to the , high-quality child care helps build resilience among at-risk children, partly due to the relationships they form with caregivers. Of the children and youths who were abused or neglected, an estimated 147,462 received foster care services 1.

Public Policy and Advocacy

This page provides resources and information about new federal legislation, regulations, and Children's Bureau policies. Colleagues have also advanced methods for research work involving young persons in meaningful and empowering ways and advised policy makers and third party actors.

gov.ie

UNICEF helps build the capacity of local governments — in both urban and rural contexts — to generate local data, plan and organize services, prepare for emergencies, budget equitably and monitor the impact of interventions on children.
