Man died after rotten tree fell on him while camping in woods at Tehidy Country Park

From wildfires in the United States, to flooding in British coastal communities, climate change has the potential to universally impact our livelihoods and ways of life. The modern form of the word, with its connotations of scenery, appeared in the late sixteenth century when the term landschap was introduced by Dutch painters who used it to refer to paintings of inland natural or rural scenery. Two countryside officers, who covered Tehidy, were aware the tree had been dead for at least three growing seasons but it was deemed a low risk and not a subsequent danger.
