

Fictions of the female self - Charlotte Brontë, Olive Schreiner, Katherine Mansfield

St. Martins Press - The Other Side of the Looking Glass: Women's Fantasy Writing and Woolf's Orlando

Description: -

- Self in literature.
 - Women in literature.
 - Women and literature -- Great Britain.
 - Psychological fiction, English -- History and criticism.
 - English fiction -- Women authors -- History and criticism.
 - Mansfield, Katherine, 1888-1923 -- Criticism and interpretation.
 - Schreiner, Olive, 1855-1920 -- Criticism and interpretation.
 - Brontë, Charlotte, 1816-1855 -- Criticism and interpretation.
 - Fictions of the female self - Charlotte Brontë, Olive Schreiner, Katherine Mansfield
 - Fictions of the female self - Charlotte Brontë, Olive Schreiner, Katherine Mansfield
- Notes: Includes bibliographical references (p. 165-192) and index.
This edition was published in 1991

Filesize: 19.610 MB

Tags: #Katherine #Mansfield

Fictions of the female self : Charlotte Brontë, Olive Schreiner, Katherine Mansfield

She is best remembered today for her novel 1883 , which has been highly acclaimed. Although Schreiner moved to England with the intention of becoming a nurse, her chronic asthma prevented her from study. Her body was exhumed by her husband for reburial on Buffels Kop, Cradock.

Fictions of the female self: Charlotte Brontë, Olive Schreiner, Katherine Mansfield by Parkin

In a letter to John T. Once there, she was never to realise her dream of becoming a medical practitioner, as her ill-health prevented her from completing any form of training or studying. Newcastle: Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2008, 75-95.

Fictions of the Female Self

When her older brother Theophilus 1844—1920 was appointed as headmaster in 1867, Schreiner and two of their siblings went to live with him. Another friendship that would prove to be influential was with , the founder Socialist and gay rights activist, which, as Stephen Gray shows, remains hardly explored.

Fictions of the Female Self

Baton Rouge and London: Louisiana State University Press, 1994, 36-52. She had always wanted to be a doctor, but had never had enough money to pay for the training.

Related Books

- Sittings of the House.
- Descendants of James May of Ireland - including a summary of the Arrigo, Barcelo, Bondi, di Maria, F
- First destinations of graduates & diplomats
- Exploratory study of Anorexia Nervosa in female adolescents using techniques derived from personal c
- Mosses of Dominica, British West Indies and Mosses of the Ecuadorian Andes collected by P.R. Bell