From Lugard's point of view, clear-cut military victories were necessary because the surrenders of the defeated peoples weakened resistance elsewhere. Other European powers acknowledged Britain's dominance over the area in the 1885.

Colonial Nigeria

If the surface life has been reanimated as recently as 450,000 years ago, then rovers on Mars could find dormant but still viable life at a depth of one meter below the surface, according to an estimate. Africa as a whole was hit by three waves of Influenza, the first and second would be the most deadly for the colony of Nigeria.

Weak and Lame

Exploration was intensified in 1946, but the first commercial discovery did not occur until 1956, at Olobiri in the Niger Delta. The exact causes are not well understood but may be related to a combination of processes including loss of early atmosphere, or impact erosion, or both. Nigerian recruits participated in the war effort as labourers and soldiers.
