Overall, however, the predominantly male lodging population of Cardiff constituted a strong monoglot English-speaking presence in the town. These profound changes meant that Wales was no longer a predominantly agricultural society. No one said a word on our behalf.

Comisiynydd y Gymraeg

Glamorgan and Monmouthshire, the predominantly rural counties of Wales and the south-west of England. In the words of J. As Table 6 shows, children in the vast majority of households headed by Welsh-speaking parents were also able to speak Welsh and only in three households were some or all of the children of Welsh-speaking parents returned as monoglot English speakers.
