In His image : the Jewish philosophy of man as expressed in rabbinic tradition / by Samuel Belkin

Against the dark backdrop of the Holocaust, I learned to see the glimmer of light, no matter how faint, in every situation.

Auschwitz #34207: The Joe Rubinstein Story by Nancy Sprowell Geise

This is one of the most amazing books I have read.

Schumer Chapman attempts to help us understand through her I don't know how to say this as enthusiastically as I'd like to without it sounding false, but this is one of the best books I've ever read - ever.

Fathom

. Through the two year period she was in the attic, she wrote surprisingly philosophical observations of the world, and she also learned a vast amount of information about herself. I am left amazed and changed by Mr.

Fire in the Ashes: God, Evil, and the Holocaust on JSTOR

. Motherland is a story of learning to face the past, of remembering and honoring while looking forward and letting go. Auschwitz 34207: the Joe Rubinstein Story, by Nancy Sprowell Geise, is an unforgettable book.

In this moment of fear, a story of hope from Holocaust survivors

Elie's prolific creations do not just reflect the Holocaust but also the hope and optimism against the darkness of Auschwitz.
